6. TRAINING AND DEVELOPMENT & COMMUNITY OUTREACH

Moxx recognizes that there is a serious shortage of skills in the built-environment industry in the country, with civil engineering not exempt. Of particular concern is the fact that a significant shortage exists amongst the previously disadvantaged. In recognition of this fact, Moxx has developed, as a starting point, a training programme to develop its own human resources skills base. This will not only improve the skills base of our personnel, but will ensure an improved quality standard of our service to our Clients. The training will be achieved through:

- In-house training.
- Continuing Professional Development courses.
- Specialist skills focused training, e.g. CAD, Project Management courses, etc.
- Bursary schemes for further studies

As the company grows, we aim to develop further training programmes that will reach out to, amongst others, client nominated trainees, bursaries to needy children from the communities where we work and other academically deserving students, In-service training opportunities to final year degree/diploma candidates.
